In May 2014, Anne Neilson opened her namesake gallery Anne Neilson Fine Art in the heart of Charlotte's historic SouthEnd neighborhood. The gallery occupies a ground floor storefront in Dilworth Artisan Station, a three-story brick building built in 1985 that houses the studios and showrooms of artists, designers, architects and photographers.

Through the gallery's research and travels, they've gathered a stable of artists from the U.S., Canada, and Europe. In addition to carrying Neilson's own oil paintings, the gallery features work by highly acclaimed artists such as photographer Dean West and oil painters Oriana Kacivlek and Jove Wang.

Since its opening in May, the gallery has seen steadily increasing sales across all genres of art carried.

In November the gallery will host Strokes of Compassion, releasing Neilson's second book—also titled Strokes of Compassion—and featuring more than 80 artists from the gallery whose works are featured in the new book. A reception will be held November 7. In December the gallery will host a small works show featuring Eve Plumb (known for her work as Jen Brady on The Brady Bunch). A cocktail reception will happen Friday, December 5 for the show.
